MEET OUR FABULOUS NEW COMMITTEE

U3A Townsville Management Committee for 2017.

Check out who's who on Page 5

University of the Third Age

is an international movement whose aims are the education and stimulation of mainly retired members of the community - those in their third 'age' of life.

For further information please contact one of our committee members whose contact details can be found on the back page of this newsletter.

New members are most welcome!

And many thanks to these wonderful encouraging members who came along to participate in the important business of electing a new committee to lead us through the next twelve months. Your support is greatly appreciated - as were the delicious goodies you shared with us after the meeting.

From the President's desk:

Hi, my name is Terry Lambrose. At the recent AGM I was appointed to the position of President of U3A Townsville. Without any equivocations, I consider it an absolute honour to be the president and I will work to gain the trust and the respect of all members of our organisation.

The first U3A was established in Toulouse, France, in 1972, to improve the quality of life for older people by giving them access - at moderate fees - to non-credit courses in the humanities and natural sciences at the established degree granting universities.

The commitment of the organisation to lifelong learning rings loud in my ears. I was one of those people who did not achieve in the school system and it was only later in life that I returned to academic studies, and to the surprise of my family, friends, and myself, I was extremely successful.

Hence, I have a burning belief that you can achieve whatever you want to achieve and that gaining new knowledge, and acquiring new skills and applying these, can bring contentment, happiness and joy in a way that cannot be measured in terms that the world seems to value such as money and power.

As we begin our journey together for 2017, I think it appropriate to share my philosophy and values. In simplistic terms: Give a person a fish and they live for a day ... give them a fishing line and teach them how to fish and they live for a lifetime.

In the words of President Kennedy: "Some men see things as they are and say, why? I dream things that never were and say, why not?" And in 2017, I ask the same question: I believe our job as an organisation is to provide the opportunity for every one of our members to achieve the level of knowledge and skill that they want to achieve irrespective of age or background. And why not?

We can achieve this.

As in every voluntary organisation, there is much to do and few to do it. Your committee of 15 dedicated people need to know your vision for our association: so, for the committee of 2017, we will have a process that allows communication to flow freely and smoothly through the organisation, from the members to the committee and from the committee to the members.

We want to grow an organisation that has guiding principles and frameworks which allows this to happen and where our people can feel safe and supported. We also want an organisation where the members, you, will step up to help out when the committee needs a hand.

We want to build an organisation that is prepared to look at itself honestly and ask the hard question about how the organisation can serve each and every member and how each and every member can serve the organisation.

To this end, it is my personal desire to initiate a think tank group that will act as a conduit between the committee and the members to float ideas and help develop a solid workable strategic plan for the future of U3A in Townsville.

My regards and best wishes to you all in 2017.

Terry Lambrose
President U3A Townsville

Immediate past president Graham Collins, (right), welcomes the newly appointed president, Terry Lambrose.

Graham continues to serve the association in his role of vice-president and tutor.

Your Invitation...Official Opening of the new premises of U3A Townsville

Members are cordially invited to attend the opening of our new Vincent Campus. As the new president of the Association, I look forward to meeting you over coffee and cake and hearing your ideas about future possibilities for our organisation. Please bring a friend to this afternoon celebration of our move.

Warm regards,

Terry Lambrose

Philosophy Group

The Creative Writers creativity is still flowing freely every Tuesday morning and we are still enjoying both our topics provided, (c'mon you know that's mostly true) and each other's company.

For me, who sets the 'homework' topic, it is still quite amazing to note the different paths each of us takes on the one theme. We all read our homework assignment to the rest of the group, but we do not critique. We are a diverse lot with different skill levels and simply being a part of this sharing group leads to noticeable improvements in the quality of our stories and poems. We also have a 'five- minute write' where a topic is drawn from the hat and it's heads down till the bell rings - challenging, but fun!

Our morning tea break is usually noisy and informative, and John, we miss your quiet, cheeky, male presence and hope you are back with us as soon as possible.

Due to our venue, we have limited room, but could possibly squeeze in another couple. We meet Tuesdays from 10am to 12.00pm. If you are interested in joining our group, please give us a ring -

Val: 4723 6083 or Ann: 4723 8870.

Last day for submissions for
3rd Quarter Newsletter: July 25th 2017
Folding: August 3rd 2017

Do you enjoy a group discussion where it is safe to express your opinions?

The Philosophy Group meet every Monday, excluding public holidays, to discuss topics and issues in philosophy. Normally discussions focus on an agreed topic which allows participants time to research the subject prior to the meeting.

Liam Morris currently leads the group and keeps the debate flowing, ensuring all contributions are respected in this diverse group which is open to all levels of experience. It is okay to just sit and listen. One of the ways we learn from the discussions is from seeing things from a perspective different from our own.

U3A Townsville BOOK CLUB

Our book club meets on the second Monday of each month at 9.00am at the Aitkenvale Library. Throughout the year, we read 10 books chosen by our members from the list of 'Book Club Sets' that the library provides. We aim for a variety of genre to suit all tastes, but as not every read is appreciated by all, this leads to lively discussion around the believability of plots and the likeability of characters.

A great deal of fun is had by all!

To join us: Ring me, or just turn up. You will be very welcome! Jenny Marks: 4403 9729

Other news from our Thursday Art Group:

Our painting group has welcomed a couple of new members since its move from Aitkenvale to the QCWA Hall in Pimlico, adding to the output and variety of artworks, but we still have room for a new member or two. If you would like to join the group please ring either Jan on 047 3015613 or Jackie on 47251067. Just be aware that we do not have a tutor, but other members will happily help.

We have been asked several times recently if we plan to hold another exhibition. Well, the answer is yes! Most of us have accumulated a number of works that would love a new home. (See the top item for all the details.)

FutureLearn ... can open your world

by Syd Collins

For anyone who is relatively home-bound, for whatever reason, FutureLearn can open your world, without the expense or inconvenience of having to travel to lectures, find transport or parking. I can work in my own time, at my own computer, spend a few hours on line every week, more if I have the time. I can work early mornings - my time - or evenings - Eric prefers TV. Just love all this free, on line learning and because there are no exams, and one doesn't pass or fail, I can put as much effort into each course as I choose.

These short courses, which usually run for between 3 and 6 weeks cover a wide variety of subjects. This is my virtual online, ongoing education and lifeline to the outer world. It has added another dimension to my life.

Most courses are offered by universities in Great Britain, Australia, and European countries, all in English. Lectures are really interesting, easy to understand and extremely well presented. To access courses is simple, and sharing comments and experiences with other students around the world is most informative.

Their website is:

<https://www.futurelearn.com/courses>

Hi everyone,

My name is Ann Krome and there's a few things I would like you to think about. As you know the move we are making opens up opportunities to expand the courses we now have and hopefully increase the membership of U3A.

In reality we have to grow to keep us financial and viable as a successful group. I am now Course Coordinator and plan to visit every course that I can in order to know what is actually available.

I also think there is a wealth of talent out there that we could be using. What other courses would you like to have? Are you willing to pass on your skills and knowledge to others? Don't forget we are now the group that should use it before we lose it!

Also, we now have the opportunity for afternoon and evening classes which could help over 50's who are still working. Any thoughts, ideas and suggestions will be gratefully received. Ring me - let's talk about it - 0400 822 973.

Thank for your attention,

Ann Krome

Class Coordinator and Events Organiser

Help, please!

Do you have any surplus kitchen white goods you can spare, or lend, until our grants come through?

We are in dire need of a fridge, like this cute one on the right, and an urn and microwave would be very helpful. All will find a very appreciative home in our new Vincent Campus kitchen.

If you can help, please contact our office on 4724 3530 or email: u3atownsville@westnet.com.au

Dinosaurs by Joan Twine

Last night, when I journeyed back through time
I saw an Apatosaurus standing in the slime
And then I heard these awful moans
And as I looked, it swallowed stones.
Then it reached up as far as I could see
And ate some leaves from the tallest tree.

I suddenly heard some deafening roars
Which seemed to come from more dinosaurs.
You'd never believe then what I saw.
It was an Allosaurus with a big strong jaw.

Then while Apatosaurus and Allosaurus
Were arching their necks
Into the forest strode Tyrannosaurus Rex.
He shook the ground with his enormous feet
As this giant lizard looked for something to eat.

I couldn't help it. I let out a scream. (Aahhhh!)
Then Mum woke me up. It was only a dream

You don't stop laughing when you grow old ..
you grow old when you stop laughing.

George Bernard Shaw

The playfulness and joy of a dog, its unconditional love and readiness to celebrate life at any moment often contrast sharply with the inner state of the dog's owner – depressed, anxious, burdened by problems, lost in thought, not present in the only place and only time there is: Here and Now. One wonders: living with this person, how does the dog manage to remain so sane, so joyous?

"Stillness Speaks" ... Eckhart Tolle

An elderly man owned a large property with a dam in one of the lower paddocks where he had planted mango and avocado trees. The dam was a great swimming spot for his grandchildren and he'd put in a couple of picnic tables in the shade of the trees. One warm evening, the old farmer decided to go down to the dam to look it over as he hadn't been there for a while.

He grabbed a ten litre bucket to bring back some fruit. As he neared the dam, he heard shouting and laughter, and as he got closer he could see several young women skinny-dipping in his dam.

"Good evening, ladies," he called loudly.

Screaming and splashing, all the girls were soon huddled together in the deep end.

One of the women shouted to him, "We're not coming out until you leave!"

The old man frowned, "I didn't come down here to chase you naked ladies out of my dam."

Holding the bucket up he said, 'I'm just here to feed the crocodile.'

Moral: Old men may walk slow, but they can still think fast.

Poor Mum

Warning

When I am an old woman I shall wear purple
With a red hat which doesn't go and doesn't suit me.
And I shall spend my pension on brandy and summer gloves
And satin sandals, and say we've no money for butter.
I shall sit down on the pavement when I'm tired
And gobble up samples in shops and press alarm bells
And run my stick along the public railings
And make up for the sobriety of my youth.
I shall go out in my slippers in the rain
And pick the flowers in other people's gardens
And learn to spit.

I shall wear terrible shirts and grow more fat
And eat three pounds of sausages at a go
Or only bread and pickle for a week
And hoard pens and pencils and beermats and things in boxes
But now I must have clothes that keep me dry
And pay my rent and not swear in the street
And set a good example for the children,
I must have friends to dinner and read the papers.

But maybe I ought to practice a little now?
So people who know me are not too shocked and surprised
When suddenly I am old, and start to wear purple.

Jenny Joseph

My neighbour knocked on my door at 2:30am this morning.

Can you believe that - 2:30am?

Luckily for him I was still up playing my bagpipes.

Age is of no importance ...
unless you are a cheese!

If you love something, set it free. If it comes back, it will always be yours. If it doesn't come back, it was never yours to begin with.

But, if it just sits in your living room, messes up your stuff, eats your food, uses your telephone, takes your money, and doesn't appear to realize that you had set it free - you either married it or gave birth to it.

We appreciate that not everyone chooses to use a computer and those who require the printed version will still receive theirs in the mail.
